ATLANTA CONSTITUTION.

By W. A. Hemphill & Co. ATLANTA, GA., WEDNESDAY MORNING, JULY 14 1875. Vol. VIII--No 24.

Daily Constitution.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON, JULY 13.

BEECHER wants a rest and Moulton wants ar-rest, which by no means makes them agree in their desires!

OUR cobbler Vice-President is out upon another tour. When will he come to his "last?"

AN agricultural paper says "labels are absolutely necessary in the nursery." We can't see why, nnless there are twins about.

THE Brunswick Appeals returns to the folio form next week, and at the same time will abandon the "patent inside" system.

IT IS said that heat usually produces expansion, but a brother journalist asserts the paradox that the hot weather shortens his pastor's sermons!

"MAKING yourself the hero of your own story" is set down among impolite things, but Sherman never read the rule, it is presumed.

A TEXAS editor, desiring to celebrate "the Fourth," advertised for a plan of the national flag, in order that he might have one built." He had forgotten "what sort of a thing it is."

ALL the big hard words in Longfellow's new poem are to be grouped together for use at the centennial spelling match, and a Welchman is expected to be the winner.

SINCE Grant became president he has made eighteen changes in his cabinet, and it now resembles the boy's jack-knife after he had a new blade and a new handle put to it.

THE St. Louis Times says that, if the merchants of that city are as sharp as they ought to be, Chicago will not be allowed to monopolize the fruit trade of Florida without a little bit of competition.

THE Cincinnati southern railroad company is advertising for proposals for the foundations and masonry of a bridge over the Tennessee river, at Chattanooga. The stone for the masonry is to be of the best quality of limestone, and all the piers but one, are to rest on the solid rock.

THE gubernatorial mill has now settled down to a steady production of about one candidate a day. This rate will give us, with the large send-off, about four hundred candidates when the convention meets next year. To day we present Judge Hansell's name, with the warm commendations of the Valdosta Times and Nashville Journal.

THE Charlotte Observer complains bitterly of the running arrangements of the Air-Line road. The present schedule virtually prohibits through travel, although it is very popular with the hotel proprietors at the termini. Passengers from the north are delayed twelve hours and a half at Charlotte, and twelve more hours at Atlanta. This great line should be free of all such delays. It could become the most desirable and popular route in the south for through travel.

THE comptroller of the currency desires to retire the five-dollar notes of the following banks, as they have been successfully counterfeited: the First, Third and Traders' national banks of Chicago, the First national bank of Baxton, Ill., and the First national bank of Canton, Ill. The national banks throughout the country are requested to return all notes of these banks of the denomination of five dollars to the treasury for redemption, and no additional issues of this denomination will hereafter be granted to these banks.

PEACE AND UNION.

Invitation to Federal and Confederate Soldiers to Meet at the National Reunion to be Held at Caldwell, Ohio.

MARIETTA, OHIO, July 4, 1875.

His Excellency the Governor of Missis ippi:

DEAR SIR:—I have the honor, on behalf of the committee on invitations of the soldiers' national reunion, to be held at Caldwell, Ohio, to invite your excellency, Mr. Jefferson Davis and Mr. Alexander Stephens, and all the ex officers and soldiers of the Confederate army and navy, to be present on said occasion. It is impossible to designate each and every one by name. Hence this general invitation.

Our reunion means peace and good will. The ex-federal soldiers are all likewise invited. Such a meeting must advance the interests of peace and fraternity. We open our arms to receive you. We pray you all to come. The war is over forever. This is the era of peace. Let us come together and rebind the dissevered chords of national fraternity. Let us get near enough to better understand each other. We are entering upon our national centennary. Let us approach the sacred festival with nothing but feelings of mutual pride and affection. We pray the newspapers of the south publish this general invitation.

Yours respectfully,
R. B. HOOVER, Secretary.

Sclavonic Disturbances.

LONDON, July 13.—A dispatch by the Reutur telegram company, from Vienna says: The southean Sclavonic party grossly exaggerated the Herzegovinia disturbances, which are entirely of an agrarian character, and originate in resistance to the tax collectors. Turkey considers it unnecessary to send re inforcements to the scene of the trouble.

Moody and Sankey's Farewell.

LONDON, July 13.—At Moody and Sankey's farewell meeting last night, one hundred and eighty clergymen of the church of England were present—far out numbering those of any other denomination. Canon Conway, of Westminster, occupied a seat on the platform. All present were deeply affected. Mr. Moody while speaking was so overcome by emotion that he had to stop, and was unable to conclude his address.

Bishop Smith Withdraws.

BALTIMORE, July 13.—Bishop Smith has withdrawn as a member of the preliminary court before which the charges against Bishop Whitingham are to be examined. If the charges are sustained he will be tried before a court of seven bishops. Whitingham refus d to act upon the presentment. The standing committee charges two clergymen with exciting prayers for the dead, involving the doctrine of purgatory.

The New Spanish Constitution.

MADRID, July 13.—The draft of the constitution provides that the senate shall be composed of three classes. First, hereditary title. Second, elected by popular corporations. Third, nominated by the crown. All grandees of Spain, with an income of $10,000 and over, are included in the first class.

It is reported that 1,000 Cartist prisoners have arrived at Valencia. The populace threatened to lynch them. Some of the Carlist soldiers were placed on a man-of-war to prevent a massacree.

Peter B. Sweeney.

NEW YORK, July 13.—An arrangement has been entered into between the counsel for the people and the defendant's counsel, in the suit of the people against Peter B. Sweeney, by which the bail is to be reduced from $3,000,000 to $150,000. This action has been taken to secure Sweeney's voluntary appearance in court, he being at present in Paris and beyond the reach of civil process. It is stated that the counsel for the people in the Ring suits says a number of smaller fry have offered to pay sums ranging from $50,000 to $500,000 to escape prosecution, and that $30,000 would be paid in a day or two by one of that class.

A Riot.

LOUISVILLE, July 13.—A special from Clarksville, Tenn., says two Irishmen attacked a negro with knives. The next morning twenty negroes attacked the Irishmen, who refugeed in a grocery store, from whence they were taken by the police to the station for safety. The same night the negroes assailed the grocery with pistols, axes and stones, and nearly demolished it. Several disreputable houses were mobbed. In the meantime the friends of the Irishmen battered down the door of the caboose, liberating them. A general riot was feared, but all is quiet now. None were serious'y hurt.

An Orange Riot.

LAWRENCE, MASS., July 13.—A mob attacked Orangemen returning from the picnic. A dozen Orangemen with ladies and children disembarked from the steamer at the landing, and a mob of several hundred Irish followed shouting, jeering and finally throwing stones. One lady was struck three times and badly hurt, while others were more or less injured during the half mile walk to the station house for refuge. Four of the men wore the rega ia of the order, and one of these, severely hurt, had his sash torn from him. The mayor, with a squad of police, attempted to escort the fugitives home, but a shower of bricks and stones as soon as they left their shelter wounded every person of the party except the mayor—some of them seriously. The mob made a furious assault, nearly all the Orangemen and policemen were knocked down, when the latter drew their pistols and commenced firing upon the Iri h, who shouted "Kill the d——d Orangemen." The mob scattered before the revolvers None were killed outright, but two men, one woman and a boy of twelve were wounded. The riot lasted two hours, along a route extending a mile through the most populous portion of the city.

LONDON, July 13.—The Orange celebrations occu.red as usual throughout Liverpool and Ulster. Resolutions were passed condemning home rule. No disturbances.

Sporting News.

CAPE MAY, July 13.—With an ebbing tide the head wind south by southwest, the regatta started fairly this a. m. on the gun signal from the Tallapoosa. The number of spectators was small as compared with Monday. Idler passed the flag boat first, followed close by the Resolute, Mohawk and Evot, and the sloop Sadie Pretty Dash, and the last craft out was Sunshine. The calculation of the start is made from the time of the passing steamer and the flag boat. Some tug boats and other passenger crafts are here as yesterday, and the steam yacht Eutaw is anchored as course stake boat some miles out in the ocean, studded with sails, present a beautiful sight. The opinions are freely expressed as to the likelihood of the result but nothing short of official data can settle that.

SARATOGA, July 13.—In the single scull race between J. Kennedy, of Yale, and W. F. Weld, of Harvard, Kennedy failed to make his appearance, and the judges sent Weld off alone. He came over the course without reference to time and was received with cheers at the grand stand.

A WHALE.

An Exciting Scene in Galveston Harbor—Discovery and Capture of a Whale—Narrow Escape in the Channel.

[Galveston News.]

For a long time whales have been known to frequent the waters of the Gulf of Mexico. In the southern portion, however, whalers have sought these, and with some success. Last fall, it will be remembered, a whaling boat put into this port shortly after the September gale, that vessel having three whales on board at the time of the gale, but lost them in the storm. Few instances are recorded, however, where they have wandered so far up the Gulf as to be seen in or near Galveston harbor. The oldest inhabitant remembers that twenty-seven years ago a whale fifty feet in length was found on the west end of the island dead. From the blubber was manufactured a large quantity of oil, numbering some forty barrels. Seven years ago a whale eighteen feet long was caught in the bay, and this time also the blubber was turned into oil. Another instance is now to be recorded of the appearance of a whale in the vicinity of Galveston. The report has been in circulation since Sunday afternoon, and there remains doubtless scarcely a child who has not heard the story and related it again to some other child. Of course the yarns in relation to it have increased with due proportion, and it is not surprising that they vary and continue to grow large. While this is indeed a fish story of no ordinary nature, yet it pertains to be a genuine one, and the correct version of it, among so many that seem incorrect, may be interesting. From the parties who had the pleasure or discomfort of discovering this whale in Galveston channel, and who should know the most about the matter, the following narrative comes: Early on the morning of the Fourth, Capt. Andrew Foster, of the yacht Theresa, and a party of excursionists, were sailing on the bay. About six o'clock, upon nearing Bolivar Point, they saw a short distance from them an uncommon disturbance of the water and a huge spouting and puffing being carried on. The party readily discovered that the object before them was a whale. He was aground in shoal water and being unable to extricate himself, was celebrating the Fourth as best he could. The excursionists at once set about to capture his whaleship, and having with them a shot gun fired several times at him with slugs which they formed from the lead on their fish lines. Having somewhat disabled the monster and feeling assured of the safety of their prize, four men were left in a skiff to guard it, while the remainder of the party returned to the city to procure ropes, harpoons, etc. The picket guard were leisurely gazing upon the whale while he still persisted in spouting and dashing high the water, when a large sized sloop approached. This was commanded by Ed. Brown and Jack Best. This boat at first sailed by the men in the skiff, but suddenly turned its course and approached. They had discovered the whale and desired the booty. They were warned that his pretended owners were already in keeping of the prize, but this seemed not to effect their course, which was directed in a line with the skiff. The latter was struck and landed on the opposite side of the whale. It is fortunate that the four men were not drowned, but being good and active watermen, two of them held to the bottom of the sloop, and for a time the other two were on the whale. Soon, however, the men in the water each got hold of the skiff and clung to it. They were shortly surprised to see another vessel approach, an unknown schooner, and Best, who now claimed the prize, went aboard of her and took the whale in tow by means of a rope, which he had attached to an old harpoon, then in the body of the whale. The latter was towed into deep water and it is said for a time showed himself master of the schooner, and succeeded in carrying it for some distance, until near Hanna's reef, when it was again aground. In the meantime the remaining number of the first crew returned, fully equipped to take charge of their first-discovered booty, but were much astonished to learn of the course it had been compelled to take.

The party were of course much excited, and immediately took legal steps toward regaining the whale. Their story of the capture of a whale at once spread, and yesterday numbers were visiting the wharves, expecting its arrival. But they were disappointed, since it failed to arrive. It was reported also that the fish had made its escape, and that it was not to be found, while others asserted that it was still safe on the reef. A schooner was seen bound out yesterday afternoon, and this was supposed to be going to those parts where the whale was last seen. The principal topic on the streets is "whale! whale!" and doubtless it will continue to be "whale" until he is brought in port and boiled down.

Flatness of the Marriage Market.

[New York Herald.]

The matrimonial market has since the panic been extremely dull, and heads of families are in most despondent mood. It had been hoped last fall that the usual winter's festivities or marriage fairs would have witnessed a revival in trade, and every legitimate effort was made by those holding on hands stock held over from the previous season to force off goods that were rapidly growing out of fashion, and depreciating in value. Prices were liberally marked down; young ladies, who, before the panic, were held (by themselves) at a Fifth avenue house, a Newport villa, and an opera box, modestly hung out signals of distress, and openly avowed their predilections for love in a cottage. But so depressed was the general feeling that even with these concessions very little real business was transacted. There was much skirmishing, but few serious engagements.

Early during the rain, Monday afternoon, the small dwelling on Chapel street, in the first ward, and occupied by Mr. John Kurr, was struck by lightning. One corner, or corner post, was struck, doing some little damage. The fluid run down to the ground out to the fence, damaging and splintering it. Mrs. Kurr was slightly shocked, and after the occurrence complained of weakness—one side of her face appeared affected. Mr. J. Harris was sitting in a house some ten feet off, at an open window, and was stunned, but recovered after a short time.

ATLANTA.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, JULY 14, 1875.

A NEPHEW of Count von Moltke is a member of the Wheeler exploring expedition in southern California.

SHREVEPORT, LA., aspires to the "cotton centre" of northern Louisiana, eastern Texas and western Arkansas.

CHARLES NORDHOFF, whose republican proclivities cannot be doubted, hits the nail on the head when he terms the kitchen organ the National Idiot.

THE Pittsburg Evening Telegraph opines that "Mr. Bigler may be the unanimous choice of the democratic convention" for governor, but gives no reason for the faith that is in it.

AS Beecher's increased salary amount to some $30,000 more than the annual revenue of Plymouth church, it is to be supposed that the difference will be made up by the richer members of the congregation.

SAM BARD, whilom postmaster at Atlanta, has started a new paper which he calls the Advance—probably because it will be necessary for his friends to advance a great deal of money to sustain it.—[Memphis Avalanche.

IT costs about $3,000 more per annum to supply the white house with fuel under Grant than it did under Lincoln. This would seem to indicate that the more whisky a man drinks the harder it is to keep him warm—[Brooklyn Argus.

THE democratic conservative committee of Maryland have agreed upon the 21st of July as the time, and Baltimore as the place, for the coming state convention. The candidates to be nominated are for governor, attorney-general and comptroller of the treasury.

AN uneasiness seems to have broken out among the ex-governors of Maine. Three of them, Stearns, Straw and Smith, together with Gov. Cheney, and their wives, have decided on a trip across the continent this fall. They will occupy a drawing-room car, with a dining-room and kitchen attached.

WHEN a Chicago editor was told that the headquarters of the national grange would be removed to Louisville, and not to Chicago, he looked up from his mortgage for a minute and spitefully retorted: "That city's grass grown streets, abundant crops of hay seed and sweet repose, possess peculiar charms for the grangers."

ON the whole, we are glad that the city of Louisville has been selected as the headquarters of the national grange. It has suitable accommodations, good hotels, an abundance of old Bourbon wherewith to entertain its guests, and a sufficiently rustic air withal to remind the grangers that they are not far from home when they get there.—[St. Louis Times.

THE Dayton Journal having suggested that Governor Allen's farm of 1,300 acres pays him only two or three per cent. because he neglects his business to get office, the Cincinnati Enquirer asks whether the Journal knows of any farm in Ohio, the proprietor of which attends strictly to business that yields an average profit of over three per cent.

LATER advices convey the information that the immediate cause of General Blair's death was an injury received by falling and striking his head against furniture while waking across the room. He had been out riding, and returned feeling much invigorated; but being seized with dizziness he fell, and became unconscious. He never rallied, and in a few hours quietly passed away in the presence of his family and friends.

THE negroes of Mississippi are evidently determined to divide the most profitable and honorable official positions among themselves hereafter instead of conferring them upon carpet-baggers and scallawags. They have arranged to nominate men of their own color for congress in the second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth congressional districts, and as the negro vote elects in that state the next congressional delegation will probably be black enough in color to please the spirits of Charles Sumner and Thad. Stevens.

IT is rumored in Dublin that the Duke of Connaught (Prince Arthur) has purchased Rockingham Castle, at Boyle, County Sligo, formerly the property of Viscount Loaton, and that he will soon take up his residence there. Rockingham Castle is one of the finest if not the very finest of the mansions and seats in Ireland, and the enthusiastic Irish population, especially in the Province of Connaught, whence His Royal Highness takes his title and where the estate is situated, are more than enthusiastic at the prospect of having a royal residence in their midst. The young Prince, by the way, has at least in part an Irish name—Arthur William Patrick.

THE COUNTER-HOPPER.

It has become quite en regle in the circles of ineffably patrician society and in the sanctorum of shoddy aristocracy to apply ridiculous epithets to those who pursue the humble ways of life. The clerk in the store where Miss Flora McFlimsey spends hundreds for lace and brocade, is styled, in epithetical expression, "a counter-hopper." The young man who weighs out the articles which are to furnish out the tables of your great banker or merchant is known to the dilletanti of the parlor as a "a meat-slinger"—save the slang! And so on through all the list of those who earn their scanty bread in the sweat of their brows and with hands whose fairness and tenderness are lost and hardened in the smut and grime inseparable from their toil.

We do not presume to be the oracle of society manners and etiquette, and may be trespassing upon one of the "divine prerogatives" of the upper ten thousand in making the inquiry, but still we ask, why is this so? Why should the poor, honest and toiling clerk in the dry goods store be referred to always as "a counter-hopper?" True the epithet cannot degrade him in his native manhood or in the estimation of the just and sensible minds of the community. But, it may dishearten and disgust him with his calling and drive him, through a false pride never too well under subjection, to abandon a livelihood for the precarious subsistence of pursuits voted "more refined," but really less noble and less independent. There are few of the self-made men of the country few of the merchant Crœsuses and eminent bankers of our city and state whose lives do not early record their apprenticeships in shops, stores and peddler's wagons, even. When one is building for life he must begin at the bottom and build up towards the clouds. The clerk or counter-hopper of to-day may be the great merchant of the next decade and his son be the welcome suitor to the lily hand of the daughter of to-day's bond-holding banker or manufacturing merchant king. The possibilities of the future are foreshadowed in the opportunities of the present, and the "counter-hopper" who acts well his part with the yard-stick to-day will inevitably hold the golden key of a massive bank-vault in the years to follow.

Even the green-grocer's boy—"the meat-slinger"—who will weigh out sugar for a thrip and bacon for a dollar to this morning's customers is as worthy of respect and the addresses of the world as his predecessor in the business, who has come to be one of the courted princes of Porkopolis. Hence, we do ourselves a wrong when we demean, by look or epithet, those who fill the humble stations of to-day. Indeed, we may well remember that we are not beyond the range of epithets ourselves. And, our best patent to nobility must lie in the respect and encouragement we give to our "counter-hoppers"—the future great men of the state—the future leaders of society and purse-holders of the world.

ECHOES OF KU-KLUXISM.

It ought to be a satisfaction to Morton, Butler, Chandler, and the other political matadors who flaunt the bloody shirt in the face of the wild bull of prejudice at the north, that public bodies in the south find it necessary to publish serious resolutions of assurance to the world that the lives and property of settlers in our section are safe. The recent convention of the Georgia Press Association in this city, found it advisable to reiterate in express terms what is a palpable truth to all fair, unprejudiced minds. It seems to have become a necessary part of the immigrant's duty, before taking up his journey southward, to find a resolution assuring protection from the "wild rebels" and "bloody Ku-Klux" to the new comer.

While there can be no harm in passing and publishing such resolutions we do think that we lower our own standard of self-respect in thus pandering to the inflamed, ignorant credulity of those who listen with gospel faith to the apostles of hate who originate and preach these infamous lies. The people of the south can point to a history as brilliant for honor, respect of the law, hospitality and good-will, as that of any section or country upon the globe. Even in war their career will be told in history as one full of humanity and Christian regard for the rights and persons of individuals. And since the late civil strife in our own country, we feel certain the impartial observers of the times will credit us with all the fortitude, forbearance and law-abiding spirit exhibited in the passage of the years. Then why should we lend color to the presumption of different antecedents and practices by solemn resolutions that we will protect the lives and money of those who may now find it profitable to come among us? We are willing to join in the extending of a hearty welcome to all who seek us, but we do not believe we can hereafter stoop to the pledging of that safety to every man who comes among us, which has never been denied to any of them, of whatever clime, faith or degree.

We not only, however, endorse what has been already done in this regard, but we even hope it has been beneficial. But we also trust it has been sufficient. The man from the north has never been in danger among us—has never been necessitated to keep one eye upon his carpet-bag and the other upon a general look-out for the coming of the ferocious Georgia major, with his outre costume of shirt-collar and spurs; nor even found it advisable to go to bed before dark, in order to have day-light in which to search his room for hidden and murderous ku-klux. Then why should we resolve that it is so? Ku-kluxism is now but an echo; let us not re-echo it in any manner!

RE-BURNISHING OUR SHIELDS.

A great deal of patriotic syllabub is being whipped up in the columns of the press north and south just at this season, over the supposed return of the prodigal sons of the south to the household of their fathers and the fatted calf is presumed to have been figuratively killed, barbecued and eaten at the recent fourth of July celebrations and centennial fetes throughout the country. We are being charitable credited with experiencing a return of that patriotism which has never yet been separated from us and with acknowledging a new allegiance to principles to which our loyalty has never known a jot or tittle of diminution. Our patronizing critics do us an injustice in crediting the revived enthusiasm of the southern people over the return of the anniversary of American independence to a new-birth of respect and faith in the government as it is.

We have long since yielded to the force of circumstances and "accepted the situation," and, putting away our withered hopes, turned to the sad but worthy labor of rebuilding our broken arches and reviving our blasted fields. And, throughout it all, we have cherished the true patriotism of the American citizen.

It we have hesitated to fan the flame into a bon-fire for all the world to behold, it is because we have failed to see in the recurring occasions the spirit and essence of that independence, liberty and justice which are the pedestal, column and capstone of patriotism. We have waited long to see the fourth of July stripped of a later day gew-gawism and its sectional partisan trappings. We have longed to join with all the nation in singing peans to the "fathers of the republic" and swearing anew a life-long allegiance to the principles enunciated in the magna charta of American liberty.

At length we have recognized the coming of the better time and more than willing to meet the redeeming spirit half-way, we have joined already in the ceremonies of glorification and shown our readiness to reburnish our shields in the cause of justice and freedom.

We might not have come to this point so readily, perhaps, had not the anarchy and misrule of partisans and public corruptionist, of power-mongers and imperialistic spirits, brought us to a sense of the duty which is incumbent upon all good men everywhere to being back the old spirit of '76, to return to the practice of those principles which are the true landmarks of our governmental progression and rejoin the divided patriots of the land in solid front against the country's enemies, within and without her borders. And for this we celebrate the day of independence, by re-asserting its glorious doctrines and pledging our labors to the work of returning the government to them.

OUR COUNTRY'S LIFE-BLOOD.

Democracy has proven itself no meaningless word. It is truly the government of the people, and the life-blood of democracy—the compound of its principles—is the life-blood of the people of this government. Its vitality is indestructible, and, like the dwarf palmetto of our Gulf shores, lives on the same, whether warmed by the sun or enveloped by the hottest flames.

From the foundation of our union the spirit of democracy has pervaded all our institutions, and the current of its life-blood has been visible as it circulated through and animated the people. At times this current has been clogged, interrupted and polluted, but never yet dammed up and stopped. Feebly, perhaps, but always perceptibly, has it carried itself along the veins and arteries of the body politic.

The great civil war, now happily over and falling out of sight in the sea of remembrance, witnessed the most disastrous transfusion of blood into the national current that has ever occurred. The times were falling out of joint, the head complained of the legs, the legs of the stomach, and the whole political system seemed diseased. A party of political physicians experimented upon the sickening body, and by a transfusion of "black republican," "anti-slavery" blood, drawn from varied sources, many not in sympathy with the genius of our institutions, excited the nation into that passionate, inflamed and angry spirit which produced war, desolation, crime, tyranny, and then corruption, plunder, political degredation and general prostration. To-day we are still in full view and not beyond the influence of these terrible consequences. The bad blood is not wholly eradicated from the public system, but we have the testimony and assurances that the pure, healthy, preserving current of democratic life-blood is re-asserting its mastery and beginning to beat with a vigorous pulse in every portion of the body of the people.

Democracy is built upon undying principles and like the truth it is, though crushed to earth, will rise again! We see the rosy glow of its presence everywhere. Last fall the first strong wave of its blood surged through the system and we saw the lower house of congress purified and a grander phalaux of true patriots rise in the senate. We see the mastery again given up to our democratic leaders in a majority of the states of the union. And a little way off ahead of us we beheld the coming of the free, unobstructed bound of the current which shall wash clean the Augean stable set up in the White house, and give peace, prosperity and honest democratic government to a people of democratic blood.

THE FOURTH OF JULY.

As a number of persons desire to see a concise account of the observances and speeches of the fourth in Atlanta, we have republished it in the Weekly, which may be had at THE CONSTITUTION counter at five cents per copy. tf.

THE faculty of the University of Virginia attempted to suppress General Preston's speech, but failed, as they properly ought. Preston presumed that he had been invited to speak to men trained to a love of the truth, to a devotion to free speech and to the habits of analytical thought and judgment. If the faculty deemed it unwise in him to utter the convictions of his heart, in full view of history and philosophy, they should have let the public censure him and not seek to brand their orator by their own acts.

EDMUNDS, whom the National Republican accuses of being employed to mail "old documents" about the country for campaign effects, has called upon the office-holders to walk up and plank down the rhines to the tune of one per cent. of their salaries. This is the corruption-fund collection, and is to be used, doubtless, in the Ohio election, since the saying has been transferred from Pennsylvania to that state, "as she goes, so goes the nation!"

WE give below the total receipts of cotton at the ports, from September 1, 1874, to July 9, 1875:

THE Monroe Advertiser says: It is rumored extensively in Atlanta that Judges McKay and Trippe, of the supreme court, will resign at an early day, and it is thought that Hon. Hope Hull, of Augusta, and Col. L. E. Bleckly, of Atlanta, will be appointed to the positions. We heard the rumor so often while in Atlanta, that we are persuaded it is true.

THE democratic nominee for governor of California, William Irwin, is a native of Ohio. After practicing law in Cincinnati and New York, he went to California in 1852. He has been a member of the legislature since 1861, and when Pacheco became governor through the promotion of Booth to the senate, Irwin became lieutenant-governor, a place he now fills. He is an able lawyer and a popular politician.

THAT was a very inexperienced Loader who fired his charge into the Beecher craft, for his gun developed a recoil which kicked him into jail, and $5,000 bail is demanded to secure his release. A fellow must be careful how he talks about a $20,000 preacher who is to be turned off and hired over again for $100,000.

PROF. TICE, of St. Louis, is reaping a great deal of scientific honor for his predictions about the storms, earthquakes, etc., but we believe that we have a prophet here at home who made the same predictions some time before the professor did. We claim the honors for him.

IF some philanthropist will feed the torpedo chicken upon the long-fibre Japanese corn until the latter is all gone and the former irretreivably foundered, the press of the state will rise up and call him blessed!

WE presume we are justified, from its title, to think Mrs. Evans-Wilson's new novel "Infelicia" will be a very unhappy tale.

THE COTTON STATES CONVENTION.

An Enthusiastic Reception at Raleigh.

[Special to The Constitution.]

RALEIGH, N. C., July 13, 1875.

The cotton states congress met at Raleigh at 11 o'clock in the house of representatives. Col. David E. Butler, of Georgia, president, presiding. Most of the southern and western states are represented. Gov. Brogden, of North Carolina, welcomed the members of the cotton states congress, which was replied to by Col. Butler, the president.

C. M. Busbee, in behalf of the citizens of Raleigh, in a very happy address, welcomed the congress to the capital of North Carolina, which was responded to by Dr. Maxwell, master of the state grange of Tennessee.

The superintendent of the insane asylum invited the members of the congress to visit that institution at 4 o'clock, which was accepted. It is a very fine building, and handsomely situated about two miles from the city. It contains about two hundred and forty inmates.

The members of the congress were handsomely entertained with a collation.

The congress met at 8 p. m., when the order of business was proceeded with, and various committees appointed.

Nashville was selected as the next place to hold the annual congress of 1876.

E. J. P.

Cotton Congress.

RALEIGH, July 13.—Cotton congress convended here to-day. President D. Butler, from Georgia, called congress to order. Gov. Brogden welcomed the delegates in an elaborate speech.

The morning was occupied in arranging the business of the congress. The session held another meeting again to-night. This evening, by special invitation, delegates to the congress visited the state insane asylum, and were handsomely entertained by Dr. Grisson.

RALEIGH, July 13.—At eleven o'clock, President D. E. Butler, of Georgia, called congress to order. R. I. Frelingham, J. D. Whitfield and Johnson Jones were elected secretaries. Gov. Brogden welcomed the members of the cotton states congress to the capitol of North Carolina. He hoped much good results would follow from the labor of those who had on this occasion gathered together from different states, and from different sections of the union—that the United States had been pecuniarily blessed in many respects, and it only remained for our people and particular our mechanical, manufacturing and farming interests to work together more harmoniously, advisedly, energetically to make this country all that its most ardent friends could wish, the pride of our own people and admiration and envy of the world, and in this effort the people of the south and of the great west had much to do, as upon their exertions depended the success of every enterprise in this great country. The south should depend to a much greater extent upon her own resources if she would become prosperous and independant. We needed more manufactories of every character, and greater diversity in our crops and a more harmonious working together of these interests, which are so identical. Mr. Butler in behalf of the congress thanked the governor and people of North Carolina for this welcome to the capital of the state. He rejoiced that this congress was privileged to meet in that state which first declared its independence from the rule of a foreign government, and hoped that the grand, glorious results following that declaration would be but an augury of the good results which should follow this effort of the southern farmer to declare his independence of that influence which has made him the time server of those who reaped the benefit of his labor. He believed that the deliberations of the congress would be productive of both profit and pleasure to all parties interested.

F. H. Brisbee, in behalf of the mayor, extended to the congress a hearty welcome to Raleigh and its hospitalities. North Carolina had become fully entitled to be called a cotton state, and Raleigh with pride claimed a right to have this cotton states congress in her midst, as her own prosperity was to the growth of the cotton trade in her midst. He could also extend a hearty welcome to the representatives of the great west present, and deplore its much as we may, the west is the graining and smoke house of the whole south, and the commingling of representatives of the two sections was peculiarly appropriate. He said the time will soon come, nay, has already come when the children of Georgia will read with glowing admiration the matchless deeds of the gallant McPherson, and the youths of Illinois and Iowa will learn a lesson of heroic patriotism and sacred devotion to duty at the grave of Jackson.

Dr. Wakewell, of Tennessee, responded to Mr. Busbee, in behalf of congress. He returned in touching terms thanks of the body for hearty welcome which had been extended those whom he represented. One of the principal objects of congress was to unite more thoroughly in every interest of the whole country, and the welcome extended here to those of the great west as well as those of the south, would tend to weld together more thoroughly the two sections.

Among the prominent gentlemen present, are Hon. R. Starkland, Iowa, Judge J. D. Jones, of Arkansas, Col. D. E. Butler, Ga., R. M. Sims, South Carolina, D. W. Maxwell, and many others, are expected to-night and in the morning.

Complications With Venzuela.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—An extraordinary consultation at the state department referred to the relations with Venzuela, should she not comply with a treaty regarding the payment of money due the United States. Our minister will be withdrawn.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—The subject of our relations with Venzuela was laid before the council of secretary Fish, who read the latest communications from our minister in that country and stated the general facts. It may be recollected that in December, 1872, the president announced that the government of Venzuela had made no further payments on account of the awards under the convention of 1866, and expressed the hope that it would lose no time in providing for the unpaid balance of its debts to the United States, which have originated in injuries to our citizens by the Venzuela authorities, and having been acknowledged pursuant to a treaty in a most solemn form, among nations, the president said, seem to deserve a preference over other debts of a different origin, and contracted in a different manner. He recommended this subject to the attention of congress for such action as might be deemed proper. In pursuance of this recommendation congress, in a joint resolution, expressed its sense in regard to awards of the joint commission under the convention, and the Venzuelian government was furnished with a copy of the resolution, which excluded all doubt of the earnestness of our government in its demand for the payment of the amount due, but there was no response on the part of Venzuela. In 1873 the president, in his annual message to congress, said: "It is apprehended that the government does not realize the character of its obligation under that convention, as there is reason to believe, however, that its hesitancy in recognizing them springs in part at least from real difficulties in discharging them in connection with its obligations to other governments. The expediency of further forbearance on our part is believed to be worthy of your consideration. Since then our minister to Venzuela has been repeatedly instructed to urge the payment of deferred installments until at last the Venezuelian government has expressed a disposition to do so, but claims the privilege of designating the particular states to whom the money shall be paid. To this our government will not consent, the proposition apart from other considerations, being contrary to the terms of the convention. The Venezuelian government will be informed of the rejection of its proposition, and unless the money be paid as the stipulation requires, our minister to Venezuela will probably be withdrawn. An extraordinary council of the cabinet members having been called by Secretary Fish they met to-day at the department of state, continuing in session about 2 hours. All were present excepting Secretary Bristow, who is absent in the west.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—Collector Carpenter, of the third South Carolina district, reported to the internal revenue office the capture of five illicit distillers, the seizure of four distilleries, and the destruction of one still. He says within the last forty days he has seized fifteen distilleries, captured ten men, and destroyed a large quantity of illicit whisky.

St. Louis Wants the Democratic Convention.

ST. LOUIS, July 13.—At a meeting of the democratic state executive committee, the following was adopted:

Resolved that in our opinion, the choice of St. Louis as the place for the holding of the next national democratic convention would be an act of justice to the democracy of the west. That, in the magnificent new merchants exchange, which can comfortably seat 15,000 persons, we have a hall of amply sufficient convenience for the members and spectators. That, we urge upon the members of the national committee for this state that he use his best endeavors to secure the selection of St. Louis and we authorize him in behalf of the democracy of our state, to give the assurance that they will pay the expenses of the convention and on behalf of our citizens that the members will be accommodated and as little expense as they would be anywhere else, while our citizens would vie with each other in tendering generous hospitality. Signed by the members of the executive committee.

Monmouth Park Races.

LONG BRANCH, July 13.—The first race at Monmouth Park to-day was for a trial purse of $300, for all ages; dash of one mile; 5 started; Searcher, favorite, at 2 to 1 over the field. The race was won by Searcher by two lengths; Inspiration second, three lengths in front of Lelaps, who was third; Carriboo fourth, and Vernergo last. Time, 1:45¾.

The second race, which was the principal event of the day, was the Ocean Hotel stakes, value $1,000, added to the sweepstakes of $50 each, play or pay, for three year olds, one mile and three quarters, four started. McGrath's Aristides, Chamberlain's Tom Ochiltree Peercar, and the company's leader and Harry Ozark. The last pools sold before the start. Aristides, 800, 1,000; Tom Ochiltree, 100, 175; Leader, 110, 115; Ozark, 250, 315. The race was won by Ozark, Leader second, Aristedes third, behind Ozark, Tom Achiltree last. Time, 3:10¾. Ozark took the lead at the start and retained it to the finish. The first three-quarters was run very slow, but upon entering on the last mile Ozark and Leader commenced racing and were soon five lengths in advance of Achiltree and Aristides. At the half mile post Ozark drew ahead two lengths, Aristides taking the third place. Down the back stretch the race grew very hot, but the favorite could not gain an inch. When the horses came into the home stretch, cries of "Aristides is beaten," set the crowd cheering and McGrath's colt was seen getting the whip without perceptibly gaining. Leader come very fast, and almost beat Aristides for the second place. Ozark come in winner by three lengths, Aristides second, a nose before Leader. In the closing pools Aristides was such a favorite that he was left out and Ozark sold first choice, Leader second and Tom Ochiltree third.

Third race—mile heats two best in three; purse $500; six started: won in two straight heats by Bob Wooley, Vandalite second, Scratch third, Mary Long fourth, Erastus Corning fifth, the Hoaxer same order in both heats. Time, 1:46½, 1:45½.

The last contest of the day was a hurdle race for a purse of $500; two miles over eight hurdles. Diavola won by two lengths, Trouble second, Dead-head third, Risk fourth, Minnie Mc. fifth. Time, 3:53 3 4.

The Press Convention and Excursion.

[Griffin News & Messenger.]

The press convention and excursion of last week was a success as well as brilliant occasion, commencing on Wednesday morning and terminating Saturday night. The convention was a success as a business meeting, and considerable good was accomplished. As a social reunion of the quill-drivers of the state, it was the largest gathering we ever had except one, there being fully sixty of the press present. * * * * * *

THE EXCURSION

was a grand affair in conception and execution, introducing our party into the most interesting portion of Georgia; that portion which is being most rapidly developed, and which is destined to be, if not already, the most prosperous portion of the state. It contains an excellent soil, a thriving, prosperous and hospitable people. It contains some of the grandest as well as some of the most beautiful scenery on this continent. It furnishes the most comfortable as well as cheapest summer resorts to be found in the United States. It is rapidly increasing in population, and the various industries of the age. Flourishing institutions are springing up and growing with great rapidity throughout that section. For health, comfort and pleasure, we may safely say that portion of north-east Georgia through which the Air Line railroad runs, cannot be excelled.

TOCCOA AND TALLULAH.

We have not space at present to attempt a description of the many beauties of Toccoa Falls and its scenery, or the magnificent grandeur of Tallulah and its many surroundings. To form any adequate conception of either, the eye must see and the soul take in the overwhelming sensations which a personal inspection alone produces. We simply give as our unqualified opinions that fifty or one hundred dollars cannot be more pleasantly nor instructively spent than in a visit to north east Georgia.

OUR ENTERTAINERS.

On this occasion the press of the state was entertained in a most princely manner, the chief expense being borne by the ATLANTA DAILY CONSTITUTION, which for two days and nights entertained its half hundred guests in a royal manner—furnishing railroad fare to Toccoa and return, and stage fare to Tallulah and return, and the most sumptuous of eatables and other luxuries on the entire trip. Various other parties are also entitled to and will receive the praise and gratitude of the Georgia press association. We allude especially to Col. Nichols, of New Holland Springs, in Hall county, who furnished us a splendid lunch, with champaign and music; to Mat. Buice, of Belton, who dined us there. To the citizens of Toccoa City, who refused fee or reward for entertaining us most hospitably two nights, and of whose future prospects we shall have somewhat to say hereafter. To Mr. and Mrs. Col. Young, of the Tallulah hotel, who fed us bountifully and gorgeously on the best of mountain fare, and refused all pay whatever; and last, but not least, to the Air Line railroad through its gentlemanly superintendent, Col. John B. Peck, for his liberality.

We feel sad as we think that such pleasant gatherings can in the nature of things happen so seldom, and we have a nearer feeling than ever for our professional brethren.

Such scenes and occasions as this have a tendency to elevate the tone of the press, and make all more careful of offending each other and cement closer than ever the bonds of fraternal union.

OUR SHELBY LIME HAS NO EQUAL. Analysis by Prof. Cassels, 98 65 carbonate lime, and by Prof. Tuomey, 98 80 carbonate lime.

The SHELBY makes 9 bushels Slaked Lime to the barrel, and will purify about FOUR TIMES as much gas as any other Lime.

The SHELBY will make more plaster or mortar and lay more brick to the barrel than any other Lime, because it is so strong it takes nearly twice as much water and sand to reduce it.

The SHELBY makes a beautiful white mortar or plaster, and takes a polish almost equal to plaster of Paris.

Walls plastered with SHELBY will be as white as snow. If analysis is true, the SHELBY is the PUREST, STRONGEST LIME in the world.

THE COURSE OF STUDY.

Hon. Reverdy Johnson to Col. E. N Broyles.

The following letter from the distinguished Baltimore lawyer will be, doubtless, interesting to our readers; more especially so to these of the legal profession. It was written, as will be seen, in 1854, to E. N. Broyles, Esq., who was then a young man just beginning the practice of law at Cedartown, Ga., but who subsequent to the war has been practicing his profession in Atlanta, Ga., and is now one among the first and most reliable attorneys of the Gate City.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21, 1854.

MY DEAR SIR.

Yours of the 9th has been forwarded to me at this place, where I am in attendance upon the superior court.

I do not know that any particular course of study is better than any other to prepare for the bar.

The elementry treatises are so many, and upon almost every branch of the law, that a careful study of them will make you master of the subjects.

But before studying them I would advise your reading Rutherforth's Institutes, Blackstone's Commentaries, Kent's Commentaries and Thomas Coke. The latter is, to be sure, much taken up with old and obsolete learning, but you will find it very useful in your after studies. Coke's style, too, is peculiarly fitted, I think, to fasten all he says in the memory; nor have I ever known one who read the work attentively who did not become a learned lawyer.

Your classical knowledge it is all important to keep up, and above all, in my judgment, is it important to become a ripe English scholar, by a careful and constant familiarity with the best writers in verse as well as in prose. Hoping that these crude suggestions may be of service to you, I remain, with regard, your obedient servant,

REVERDY JOHNSON.

E. N. BROYLES, Esq., Cedartown, Ga.

THE ROLLING MILL.

Considerable Unrest—Things Still Unsettled.

The card of Mr. William Goodnow provoked considerable discussion, and much animadversion yesterday. Quite a gathering of the employees of the mill took place at the mill yesterday.

Col. W. W. Clarke addressed them, explaining that nothing stood in the way of the resumption of the mill, but for Mr. Goodnow to resign. Mr. Goodnow replied in an elaborate speech, explaining his position in the matter.

No definite conclusion was reached.

Many talk of impeaching Judge Knight on the ground that he refused in open court to grant an order for one side, because he had no jurisdiction, and yet granted the order to the other party, without notice, at his residence at night.

Mr. Goodnow thinks he will be able to make all the arrangements to-day for the speedy resumption of work, which he proposes to do, unless stopped by an injunction from the other side.

Grocers' Protective Association.

A called meeting of the grocers' protective association was held last night; vice-president Mitchell presided with grace and dignity.

The invitation of the Board of Trade to meet with them on the 19th, to discuss rents, was read and accepted.

A letter from J. G. Bailie & Bro., of Augusta, asking for a copy of the constitution of the association, was read and the secretary instructed to reply.

The treasurer, Captain E. M. Roberts, reported receipts since February 10th, $69 55; disbursed, $56 00; balance, $13 55.

The subject of a social reunion at Ponce de Leon, was elaborately discussed and continued over until the next meeting.

The election for officers takes place on Tuesday night, July 27th. The officers elect are expected to treat the association to an elegant supper. Every one of 150 members are urged to come out. A committee consisting of ex-president R. J. Griffin, president J. T. Hagan and treasurer E. M. Roberts, were appointed to confer with restaurants relative to the supper.

The association adjourned in fine spirits.

DEATH OF R. E. JACKSON.—R. E. Johnson died yesterday morning at three o'clock after a brief illness. Mr. Jackson had been for seven or eight years a clerk at Chamberlin, Boynton & Co's. He was about 23 years of age. In his death not only has his family and his employes sustained a loss, but the church and society a bright and shining member. He was a model young man, setting an example worthy of imitation by older persons. A consistent member of the second Baptist church, an active member of the Young Men's Christian Association, his loss will be deeply felt by them. He will be [illegible] this morning.

MONROE FEMALE COLLEGE.—The commencement exercises of Monroe Female College begin on the 18th, and close on the 21st. The baccalaureate sermon will be preached on Sunday by Chancellor Tucker. Tuesday Rev. D. E. Butler presents the sophomore prizes. Wednesday Rev. G. A. Nunnally delivers the literary address. The alumnae address will be delivered by R. W. Patterson, of Macon. A rich feast may be anticipated.

It is given for the benefit of the First Methodist Episcopal church.

WESLEYAN FEMALE COLLEGE.

The Commencement Exercises.

An Able Sermon.

MACON, GA., July 12.

Editors Constitution:

The commencement exercises of the Wesleyan Female College were formally opened here yesterday in the presence of a crowd that bids fair to eclipse any ever gathered here on a similar occasion. Visitors are here from every section of our state, and Macon, generally so quiet, is now alive with beauty, youth and fashion. The city is looking very lovely, embedded as it is in a forest of luxuriant trees and with its wide, regular streets, and handsome residences. Nature has perhaps done more for Macon than for Atlanta, in giving it a more beautiful location and more picturesque surroundings, but all contrast in favor of this city ends. To an Atlanta man, the eternal stillness that pervades everything here is oppressive. In addition the difference of temperature is very apparent. Macon is not only warmer than Atlanta, but the nights are much closer, and the musquitoes active. With the enervating heat, and long seasons, the debility and general inactivity so general here is easily explained. The hospitality of the Macon people is preverbial and is being exemplified thi commencement. Many families have their beautiful homes filled with guests, in one of which your correspondent is comfortably located. So abundant and thoughtful is the kindness of his generous host and his accomplished family, that he cannot help ever remembering them with gratitude.

DISTINGUISHED GUESTS.

The most prominent of the guests here are of course Methodist divines and their families. Among them are Bishop Wightman, of Charleston, South Carolina; Bishop Pierce, Rev. J. W. Heidt, Rev Armenius Wright and others. The center of attraction, however, is Rev. Dr. Lovic Pierce. This aged Methodist father is still in the enjoyment of extraordinary health, and prayed in public to-day.

COMMENCEMENT SERMON.

The commencement sermon was preached yesterday at the Mulberry street Methodist church by the Reverend Bishop Wightman. The church was crowded to overflowing with the best people of Macon. The graduating class occupied chairs in front of the pulpit, and were dressed in spotless white. They were twenty-five in number, and were without exception as lovely representatives of Georgia's daughters as we have ever seen. The music was superb. The choir was led by Miss Daniels, a music teacher from the college, and contained several pupils.

The bishop preached from Collossians, 1st 17th verse "And he is before all things, and by him all things consist." The bishop delivered a discourse of a little more than an hour's duration, in his terse and vigorous style. He spoke generally upon the law of order as illustrated in nature, in the supernatural, and in the divine. He showed how Christ is the center of this universal system and how precious he should be to the world. In closing, Bishop Wightman addressed himself particularly to the senior class, and warned them earnestly against the sin of dress, ballrooms, ornamentation, etc. His address was filled with many passages of grand eloquence.

JUNIOR DAY.

To-day, the spacious chapel attached to the college, was crowded with an immense audience to witness the exercises of the junior class. The hall was tastefully decorated with flowers, and a large number of exquisite crayon sketches and oil paintings, executed by the students. The privilege of reading compositions was awarded to the ten foremost ladies of the class. These were dressed in white dresses, with blue silk scarfs, and occupied the front of the stage.

The exercises were as follows:

Music—"The Greek march," Misses Cheatham, Massey, Truman and Pate.

Prayer by Rev. Lovic Pierce.

Music—Lucia de Lammermore—Misses Dunlap, Lane, Massey, Ashburn, Johnson, Davis, Moreland, Bunty.

Composition—"If I were a genius"—Miss Bessie B. Napier, Jeffersonville, Ga.

Composition—"The harpstrings of recollection"—Miss Sallie S. Spence, Covington, Ga.

Music, (vocal duet)—"Oh, how sweet the hunter's song"—Misses Carter, Slappy, Bacon, Shewmake.

Composition—"Oh nature, best limner of God's creation, fain would I follow thee"—Miss Lila L. Jones, Macon, Ga.

Composition—"Who knows"—Miss Lena P. Shewmake, Augusta, Ga.

Composition—"Everything too old"—Miss. Vicie Holmes, Macon, Ga.

Composition—
"She is beautiful, therefore to be wooed,
She is woman, therefore to be won."
—Miss Florence G. Allen, Macon, Ga.

Music—Vocal duet, "o'er the hill, o'er the dale"—Miss Westcott, Wright, Johnson, Callaway.

Composition—"Woman's three sources of power"—Miss Annie H. Smith, Macon, Ga.

Composition—"Children's rights"—Miss Mary R. Lane, Sparta, Ga.

Composition—"Too thin"—Miss Anna E Smith, Macon, Ga.

Music—Vocal trio,—Misses Callaway, Westcott, Wright, Johnson, Bacon, Shewmake, Carter, Slappey.

Composition—"Better Days,"—Miss Ella C. Bacon, Albany, Ga.

Music—chorus, "Thy Flowery Banks."

All of the above original compositions evinced a remarkable degree of thought and care in their preparation. For ladies as young, as most of the juniors are, they were most creditable. Those of Miss Holmes and Miss Spence are unsurpassed by any we have ever heard. All of the ladies were rewarded with handsome boquets. The singing of Miss Moreland and Miss Leverett deserved especial notice.

To-morrow will be devoted to the exercises of the Allumnia Association and of the junior class.

THE LIGHTNING.

Its Freaks on Chapel Street.

Monday evening, during the rain-storm, the lightning struck on Chapel street. At No. 53 a Miss Harris and a Miss Holtzclaw were sitting in the window, and Mr. Jerome Thornton leaning back against it. Upon being urged to leave the window they replied that they were not afraid of being hurt. The lightning came in at the window and knocked them down on the floor senseless and apparently dead, and slighly scorching them. Mr. Thornton was struck on the forehead, the lightning going down his side. After considerable manipulation they were restored. Mr. Thornton is still suffering.

The lightning kept on through the house, and struck the west corner of Mrs. Kerr's porch. Mrs. Kerr was knocked down by the shock. The fluid then passed between the two fences and along the ground in front of Mr. Little's store, corner of Chapel and Tattnall streets.

"SCULPED."

John Blackstock cut in the Head.

Last night a fracas occurred near the corner of Peter and Stephens' street, between John Blackstock and William Stewart. Accounts vary as to the origin, but all agree in saying that Stewart was justifiable. It is said Blackstock struck him when Stewart cut Blackstock on the temple with a knife, inflicting a severe and ghastly wound.

Stewart was lodged in the station house. Blackstock was removed to the station house where he received medical attention.

Roanoke College.

We have before us a copy of the officers and students of the above college, located at Salem, Va., being the twentieth-session 1874–75.

The number of students in attendance are 167. There were two students from the state of Georgia, Wm. C. Charlton, jr., of Savannah, and J. D. A. Dupont, of Dupont. They are members of the select and normal class.

THE CONVENT SCHOOL.

Annual Commencement Exercises.

Quite a large and elegant audience assembled at DeGive's opera house, last night, to witness the above commencement exercises. The stage presented a handsome and attractive appearance. Beautiful vases or jars of flowers were prominent around the footlights. Elegant specimens of worsted work of the pupils of the convent, were displayed around the front of the private boxes. Then, too, quite a number of handsome drawings and paintings were suspended around the hall.

On the stage were seated Bishop W. H. Gross, Fathers Pendergrass, Reilly, and, Quillian, Col. W. J. Magill, Mr. Mahoney Mr. S. Connolly, and Mr. T. Connolly.

The performance commenced with the "grand entrance march" by Misses Savage, Connolly, McCabe and Connolly. During the execution of this piece of music by the above named young ladies, the pupils of the convent to the number of seventy, marched into the theatre and occupied the front seats. What a charming sight to see these young ladies all dressed in white—the only ornaments they wore were white ribbons and white flowers.

Salutatory by Miss Annie McCabe, which was delivered by the young lady in a clear, distinct voice. Her welcome to the Bishop, and the gentlemen upon the stage, and to the audience, was in excellent taste, and was cordially received.

"Gems from the opera" by Misses Buddie Hill and Kate Mecaslin, showed great proficiency on the part of these little ladies, and reflected very favorably upon their teachers.

"Speed my barque," received a very fine rendition from Misses Flynn, Connolly and Savage.

"Solo—Belisaris Fantasia de Concert," by Miss Nora Magill—and when after its rendition Col. Fry ascended the stage and placed a wreath of beautiful flowers around her neck, all felt her execution of the difficult music entitled her to the flowers, and Col. Fry's remarks.

The recitation of "The Raising of Jairus Daughter," by Miss M. Connolly, elicited hearty applause. She has an excellent voice, and exhibited a just conception of the piece.

The "Quartette," of Misses Malone, Savage, Skelley, and Keys, was so rendered as to give satisfaction to the audience, and to bring forth several boquets.

"Les Courter's Solo," by Miss Jennie Golden, drew the attention of the audience by its sweetness and excellent rendition.

"On to the Field of Glory," by Misses Mahoney, Connolly, Savage, McIntyre, and L. Connolly, inspired the audience, and drew forth much applause.

"Erin's Flag," as recited by Miss Lizzie Connolly, was one of the gems of the evening. Two very charming young ladies occupied the stage, holding the beautiful flag of the Hibernian Society; and Miss Connolly, in a spirited manner, very happily recited Father Ryan's gem.

The "Solo-Martha" of Miss M. Savage, tested the proficiency of the young lady, and her execution reflected credit upon her teachers.

"Lonely Bird" was very sweetly sung by Misses Flynn, Savage, and Connolly.

The grand cantata, "The Seasons," in four parts—each season closing with a beautiful tableau—was most happily conceived and magnificently rendered. We regret want of space to speak of it at length—and of each young lady who participated.

Miss Madden with a charming grace, and delicate touch, presided on the piano.

The first tableaux was a winter scene, and how very pretty and sweet the young misses looked as the snow descended upon them.

The second tableaux represented spring, and the conception and rendition, was admirable.

Third tableaux, a very prety harvest scene.

The fourth was a pyramid of the pupils of the convent. All pretty, all dressed in white, it was simply charming.

The following premiums were awarded:

One of the gold medals presented was the gift of Rev. M. McMannis, of Denville, N. J. Another was presented by Rev. M. T. Reiley, of Atlanta.

Response—Miss Clara Malone.

Son- Good Night—By School.

The following young ladies graduated: Miss Lizzie McIntyre, of Savannah, Miss Mary Connolly, Lizzie Connolly, Mary Mahoney, Dora Magill.

We must confess to regret at want of space to do justice to a commencement which reflected so much credit upon pupils and teachers.

After the valedictory and response the pupils gave a pleasant rendition to the song "good night."

The valedictory of Miss M. Connolly, and the response of Miss Clara Malone, were so very appropriate and beautiful and so admirably delivered in so graceful a manner and in such delicate taste, that we doubt not our readers will thank us for publishing them in full.

VALEDICTORY BY MISS M. CONNALLY.

Right Rev. Bishop welcome. Kind audience and very dear companions:

Another year has passed away bringing many changes, and for us a very great change, for it is not with the usual feelings of careless joy we welcome you here as of yore; then it was with the happy careless heart of children who think the bright dream of youth will last forever, and imagines that to study and obey their kind teachers is the heaviest yoke that can be borne away, and long for the time to come when they can cast aside what seems to them galling chains. All mistaken hearts. Now that we come forth to-night to bid farewell to school, how different we feel. What emotions of sadness come to the heart. Memory is busy now recalling so many pleasant scenes, so many kind acts, so many happy reminescences which serve to strengthen our allegiance and make us feel more bitterly the sad seperation from our dear convent home. And I know my sister graduates feel as I do, for often, when the day with its many little duties had drawn to a close, and soft dreamy twilight, which is so potent to draw the sentimental from any heart, and particularly from a school girls when we wandered amid familiar paths and freely discussed the future, how many castles did we not build to people with fairy forms of things to come that seemed so bright and dazzling to us then. How we long to lift the mystic veil which shaded the future from our gaze that we might revel amid the halls our imagination painted so vividly beautiful. Ah, smiling hope, weaved a magic picture those moonlight evenings. The world appeared to many a loving attraction for us, and seemed to beckon us on so repeatedly that we sometimes grew impatient and thought to-night so far away, but it has come at last, and brought with it very different feelings from the happy ones we anticipated. Before separating, dear and Rev. bishop, let us thank you for the honor and appreciated favor you have conferred on us to-night. I hope our efforts to entertain you have met with your approval, and for a time at least I hope you have entirely forgotten others and thought only of us. Be assured we will cherish with high regard the rewards received from one so loved and honored, and especially these laurels we strove so faithfully to win. Simple flowers as they are, they are very dear to us. They are typical of the bright crowns the elect will receive above, and which we ardently wish to you, our zealous and devoted bishop.

To you, dear pastor, we can not too warmly express our gratitude for the untiring zeal you have constantly manifested in our behalf. In the future we will try to live up to those principles you have tried so earnestly to inculcate, and may we prove by works as well as words the good seed you have endeavored to sow has not fallen on barren ground, but will spring up in many different virtues which will at last unite us around the throne of that God you have never failed to serve so nobly and so well. And now comes the saddest part of our duty to-night. The emotions of our hearts are very painful as we turn to bid farewell to our cherished and kind-hearted teachers. Talented instructors you may have been, but more often have you proved true and devoted friends. Safely and faithfully have you guided us over the shoals of temptations, which would sometimes encompass us, and we humbly ask when strangers shall enter your school room and take our accustomed places, they will not also enter your hearts and entirely usurp the love you have manifested for us. May God's brightest angels guard the ones we hold so dear and guide you lovingly and tenderly over the narrow path which leads to the throne of our Heavenly Father, is the prayer of those who bid you a tearful, a last farewell. And you, dear companions, whom I part from to-night, do not entirely forget the many promises of friendship made with such trusting hearts as we wandered so joyfully amid the loved halls of our dear Alma Mater. I know you are sad to-night, for as the ivy clings so tenderly to the sheltering oak, so have our hearts almost unconsciously to ourselves, steadfastly and lovingly bound us to our dear convent home. And in whatsoever clime or country, dear companions, let us often wander back in spirit to the many happy hours we spent together, and in whatever clime or country we may be, let not this goodbye that comes with such a tone of sadness from the heart ever be forgotten. And you, dear little friends, whom we leave still in school, we bid you a sad farewell. I suppose now graduation is the height of your ambition, but do not let its apparent charm deceive you; remember all is not gold that glitters, and many whose position you now covet would gladly exchange with you for the holy tranquility of your secluded home. Farewell dear little friends, do not entirely forget those that leave you to-night.

Farewell, it hath a sombre tone,
The lip is slow to take it,
It seemeth like the willow's moan
When Autumn's winds awake it.
It seemeth like a distant sea
Round some lone islet sighing;
And yet thou sayest it unto me,
And waitest for my replying.

RESPONSE BY MISS CLARA MALONE.

Dear Friends: To-day we are schoolmates; with to-morrow, a new era will have dawned for you, although our lives may henceforth diverge in different paths, rest assured you shall never be forgotten.

Our dear old school-rooms shall no longer be lightened by your sunny smiles and sweet influence, yet the remembrance of your associations will linger around, like some magic spell, brightening and encouraging us to higher aims and nobler motives.

You are now, dear schoolmates, about to enter the sea of the world, rugged with the hidden rocks upon which thousands of frail life-boats have been lost. Let not the tide of "society" bear you along with resistless force: be not slaves to that merciless goddess. Have ever before you as your guiding star the precepts and examples of our much loved teachers.

Your future life, should be such, that it will reflect the greatest credit upon the dear old convent.

Far more will be expected of you than those who have never had the superior advantage of being instructed by our gentle "Sisters of Mercy." Remember always that the very words "Convent Girls" should be a synonym for all that is pure, true and womanly. We know not what station in life we may be called to fill.

If you are destined to rule in society, rule with dignity, and if the world votes you charming women let it not be the charm possessed by slaves of the conventionalisms and forms of imperative fashion, but endeavor to win all by the gentleness and dignity of your womanly character, the kindness and affection of your womanly hearts.

Then again, if you never rule outside the precincts of your own homes, let the sceptre you sway be one of love, may your presence breathe the sweet perfume of hope, and your words prove a balm to the weary. In short—

May you be women nobly planned
To warm, to comfort, to command,
May you shine, Oh! very bright,
With something of an angel light.

And now, beloved schoolmates, it becomes my duty to bid you farewell.

There is an old adage that says, "Every cloud has a silver lining." Let us look upon this sad farewell as a dark cloud behind which the bright sun of golden joy and pleasure is brilliantly shining.

Again farewell. May peace, prosperity and happiness attend you. May Heaven's choicest blessings always o'ershadow you, and time never have the power to obliterate from the tablets of memory this sad yet happy evening. CLARA MALONE.

CITY HIGH COURT OF APPEALS.

A Heavy Docket Disposed of—The Fine Doubled on Thomas Dilleshaw.

ATLANTA, GA., July 13th, 1875.

The High Court met at 5 P. M. Present, Hon. C. C. Hammock, judge presiding, and a quorum of the General Council constituting the court. A full quorum of the bar was in attendance.

Judge Hammock called the appeal docket and the first case for trial was that of Miss Ella Hamilton, who was fined by Recorder Pendleton $10 and costs on the charge of occupying a part of a house to be used as a house of ill-fame and appealed to council. Evidence was heard and the case argued by Capt. W. T. Newman, court's solicitor for the prosecution, and Col. G. T. Fry for the appellant. She was found guilty and fined $10 and costs.

Thomas Dilleshaw was fined by the Recorder $25 and costs for keeping a disorderly house and appealed to council. He was found guilty and fined $50 and costs.

Alice Miller, Ella Gattis, Neira Forest and Emma Wilson were each fined by the Recorder $10 for occupying a part of a house for purposes of ill-fame, and appealed to council. They were found guilty and fined $10 and costs each.

Anthony Wright (col.) was fined ten dollars and costs by the Recorder for interfering with an officer in the discharge of his duties and appealed to council. He was found not guilty.

George Martin was fined $5 and costs for being drunk, disorderly and using profane language and appealed to council. The appeal was dismissed.

H. D. Harris was fined $10 and costs by the Recorder for peddling without license from the city and appealed to council. The appeal was dismissed.

Two cases were continued.

The court adjourned upon the proclamation of High Sheriff Anderson.

BASE BALL.—A match game of base ball was played yesterday evening at West End between the O. K's. from town and the West End nine. The score stood: West End nine, 7; O. K's. 5. Although the town boys got beat they done some splendid batting and catching. The O. K. boys think they would have come out victorious if it had not been for the rain. The game will be repeated in a few days. They played seven innings.

MAJOR E. W. SIMMONS, the Nimrod of Gwinnett, is suggested for gubernatorial honors. Well, he would adorn the station and magnify the office.

TERRIBLY SCARED.

Whipped Almost to Death by Coach-Whip Snakes.

The other day a negro man in DeKalb county, seven or eight miles from this city, was attacked by a pair of coach-whip snakes. One coiled around his legs and the other around his body. After tightening their coils they proceeded to lash the darkey with their tails, which resemble a coach-whip very much. The unfortunate negro thought the KuKlux had him and he made the welkin ring with his alarms. Parties came to his assistance and the snakes were killed. They were male and female. One measured eight feet and the other six feet long. The negro put a good deal of alcohol in himself and the snakes in alcohol.

BEYOND THE LETTER.

"Love your neighbor as yourself"—
So the parson preaches;
That's one half the deca'ogue—
So the prayer-book teaches.
Half my duty I can do
With but little labor;
For with all my heart and soul
I do love my neighbor.

Mighty little credit, that,
To my self denial;
Not to love her, though, might be
Something of a trial.
Why, the rosy light that peeps
Through the glass above her
Lingers round her lips; you see,
E'en the sunbeams love her.

So, to make my merit more,
I'll go beyond the letter,
Love my neighbor as myself?
Yes, and ten times better.
For she's sweeter than the breath
Of the spring that passes
Through the fragrant, budding woods,
O'er the meadow grasses.

And I've preached the word, I know,
For it was my duty
To convert the stubborn heart
Of the little beauty.
Once again success has crowned
Missionary labor,
For her sweet eyes own that she
Also loves her neighbor.

BREVITIES.

—A phonographic outline for the word "Sunbeams" reads the same either side up.

—Joaquin Miller is at Newburyport, Massachusetts, where he has finished a poem on the national centennial.

—Van Wert, Ohio, has a man who is ninety-nine years old, and great care is being taken of him to preserve him fo the centennial.

—The only people in these parts whose habitations have marble fronts, are those who are least given to boasting and vain display. They occupy the cemetery grounds.—Brunswicker.

—The Elmira (N. Y.) Bishop Cummins, that the Reformed Episcopal church has between forty and fifty clergymen and more than thirty congregations.

—The worst feature in this whole Charley Ross affair is, that a brand of execrable!! mean!!! sticky!!!! chewing!!!!!! gum!!!!!! has been named after the poor abducted.

—A millionaire of Granville, Wis., has recently made a will, in which he leaves $50,000 to any incorporated town or village in Wisconsin that will not tolerate a brass band.

—A yankee editor says: If the party who plays the accordien in this vicinity at nights will only change his tune occasionally, or sit where he can scald him when the engine has steam on, he will hear something to his advantage.

—Louisville comes to the front with a new feature in the management of hotel dining rooms. At the Galt house a hundred negro waiters, all wearing white spike tail coats, run on roller skates and bear delicious viands to the guests with lightning speed. On Wednesday a collision occured, and a hail storm of victuals covered the wearing apparel of the bald headed epictures.

—A test was recently made of the buoyant power of a leaf of the water lily known as the Victoria Regia, in the botanic garden at Ghent. Bricks were heaped over its entire area, and before it was submerged into the water a weight of 761 pounds was floated.

—The health of the venerable centenarian, Father Boehm, is so good that his physician says he will probably live to appear in the centennial celebration next year at Philadelphia. His residence at Jersey City is daily besieged by photographers, autograph collectors and interviewers, but he sees very few persons.

—"That ar' patch of ground's mem'rible," said an Omaha man, pointing to a grave all by itself outside of the town. "I reckin you'll know that, stranger, when you see it ag'in. The ockpant of that was the fust man Horrus Greeley ever told to git west—likewise he was hung for stealin' a mewl."

—In Portland, Me., the female sex preponderates to the number of 2,296 in a total population of 34,420, which, if not entirely satisfactory from a matrimonial point of view, affords a gratifying prospect of a handsome majority when woman shall have obtained the right to vote.

—The paddle wheels of a large steamer on the St. Johns river in Florida stopped suddenly, a few nights ago, and then came crash after crash in the woodwork. A panic followed, everyone rolling out of his bunk and rushing for the deck, and it was soon ascertained that a big alligator had become entangled in the revolving wheel.

—The oldest convict in the Ohio penitentiary is dead. He had been an inmate of that institution for thirty-eight years, under a life sentence, which was literally carried out. He went there compara tively young. Nearly all his adult life, reaching through two generations, was spent in rigorous confinement. His offense was murder in the paroxysm of passion, and for it he made this prodigious atonement of suffering.

—They have discovered two more pieces of the meteor which created such a sensation [illegible] Grinnell, Iowa, last February. T[illegible] fragments, weighing 71 and 48 pounds, were found on a farm near High Amana, north of the Iowa river. The 71-pound [illegible] had been used as a weight on a harrow by the owner of the farm, who thought it only an ordinary stone until informed of its true character. There are stone gatherings expeditions all over that section now.

A Revengeful Organ.

The stomach is a revengeful organ. If we assign it indigestible food, it not on'y refuses to perform its office, but inflicts upon us unspeakable tortures, such as those of indigestion, colic, cholera morbus, &c. Not content with giving us pain, it frequently inaugurates an excessive and wasting diarrhœa. called dysentery, which carries us to our graves. With a view to prevent these consequences, as soon as the stomach gives notice by premonitory twinges that its cargo is not to its liking, a wineglassful or two of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters should be swallowed. This admirable digestive cordial will promptly reconcile the refractory organ to its contents, and prevent any of those annoying and possibly fatal results which the presence of indigestible food in the stomach is liable to produce. The Bitters are also a superb tonic, restorative and appetizer. july9—deod1w&w1t

EDUCATIONAL.

AUGUSTA FEMALE SEMINARY, STAUNTON, VA.

Miss MARY J. BALDWIN PRINCIPAL.

THE Academic Term of this Institution begins the second Wednesday in September and closes the middle of the following June.

This is the largest first-class Institution in Virginia, and has a corps of upwards of thirty officers and teachers. The English course is as thorough as it is extensive.

Advantages for Music and Languages cannot be surpassed. Seven Music teachers—four instrumental and three vocal—are constantly employed, whose reputation has extended as far as the school is known.

A resident French governess teaches pupils to speak the language as well as to read and write. Both French and German are both spoken at the table by pupils studying these languages.

The buildings are convenient, comfortable, and elegant, furnished with complete apparatus and Pianos and Organs from the factories in New York and Baltimore.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

BOOK AGENTS wanted to sell "The People's Common Sense Medical Advertiser." It is the cheapest book ever published; 885 pages, over 250 illustrations, $1.50. Thousands buy it at sight who could not be induced to purchase the high-priced books treating of Domestic Machine. Unlike other books sold through agents this work is thoroughly advertised throughout North America. This fact, together with the large size, elegant appearance, and many new features of the book, causes it to sell more rapidly than any work ever published in this country. Those of my agents who have had experience in selling books, say that in all their previous canvassing they never met with such success or made so large wages, as since commencing the sale of my work. For terms and territory, address (inclosing two postage stamps and stating experience) R. V. Pierce, M. D., World's Dispensary, Buffalo, New York. Note—Mark envelope "For Publishing Department."

BEYOND THE LETTER.

"Love your neighbor as yourself"—
So the parson preaches;
That's one half the deca'ogue—
So the prayer-book teaches.
Half my duty I can do
With but little labor;
For with all my heart and soul
I do love my neighbor.

Mighty little credit, that,
To my self denial;
Not to love her, though, might be
Something of a trial.
Why, the rosy light that peeps
Through the glass above her
Lingers round her lips; you see,
E'en the sunbeams love her.

So, to make my merit more,
I'll go beyond the letter,
Love my neighbor as myself?
Yes, and ten times better.
For she's sweeter than the breath
Of the spring that passes
Through the fragrant, budding woods,
O'er the meadow grasses.

And I've preached the word, I know,
For it was my duty
To convert the stubborn heart
Of the little beauty.
Once again success has crowned
Missionary labor,
For her sweet eyes own that she
Also loves her neighbor.

BREVITIES.

—A phonographic outline for the word "Sunbeams" reads the same either side up.

—Joaquin Miller is at Newburyport, Massachusetts, where he has finished a poem on the national centennial.

—Van Wert, Ohio, has a man who is ninety-nine years old, and great care is being taken of him to preserve him fo the centennial.

—The only people in these parts whose habitations have marble fronts, are those who are least given to boasting and vain display. They occupy the cemetery grounds.—Brunswicker.

—The Elmira (N. Y.) Republican announces, on authority of Bishop Cummins, that the Reformed Episcopal church has between forty and fifty clergymen and more than thirty congregations.

—The worst feature in this whole Charley Ross affair is, that a brand of execrable!! mean!!! sticky!!!! chewing!!!!!! gum!!!!!! has been named after the poor abducted.

—A millionaire of Granville, Wis., has recently made a will, in which he leaves $50,000 to any incorporated town or village in Wisconsin that will not tolerate a brass band.

—A yankee editor says: If the party who plays the accordien in this vicinity at nights will only change his tune occasionally, or sit where he can scald him when the engine has steam on, he will hear something to his advantage.

—Louisville comes to the front with a new feature in the management of hotel dining rooms. At the Galt house a hundred negro waiters, all wearing white spike tail coats, run on roller skates and bear delicious viands to the guests with lightning speed. On Wednesday a collision occured, and a hail storm of victuals covered the wearing apparel of the bald headed epictures.

—A test was recently made of the buoyant power of a leaf of the water lily known as the Victoria Regia, in the botanic garden at Ghent. Bricks were heaped over its entire area, and before it was submerged into the water a weight of 761 pounds was floated.

—The health of the venerable centenarian, Father Boehm, is so good that his physician says he will probably live to appear in the centennial celebration next year at Philadelphia. His residence at Jersey City is daily besieged by photographers, autograph collectors and interviewers, but he sees very few persons.

—"That ar' patch of ground's mem'rible," said an Omaha man, pointing to a grave all by itself outside of the town. "I reckin you'll know that, stranger, when you see it ag'in. The ockpant of that was the fust man Horrus Greeley ever told to git west—likewise he was hung for stealin' a mewl."

—In Portland, Me., the female sex preponderates to the number of 2,296 in a total population of 34,420, which, if not entirely satisfactory from a matrimonial point of view, affords a gratifying prospect of a handsome majority when woman shall have obtained the right to vote.

—The paddle wheels of a large steamer on the St. Johns river in Florida stopped suddenly, a few nights ago, and then came crash after crash in the woodwork. A panic followed, everyone rolling out of his bunk and rushing for the deck, and it was soon ascertained that a big alligator had become entangled in the revolving wheel.

—The oldest convict in the Ohio penitentiary is dead. He had been an inmate of that institution for thirty-eight years, under a life sentence, which was literally carried out. He went there comparatively young. Nearly all his adult life, reaching through two generations, was spent in rigorous confinement. His offence was murder in the paroxysm of passion, and for it he made this prodigious atonement of suffering.

—They have discovered two more pieces of the meteor which created such a sensation near Grinnell, Iowa, last February. The fragments, weighing 71 and 48 pounds, were found on a farm near High Amana north of the Iowa river. The 71-pounder had been used as a weight on a harrow by the owner of the farm, who thought it only an ordinary stone until informed of its true character. There are stone-gatherings expeditions all over that section now.

A Revengeful Organ.

The stomach is a revengeful organ. If we assign it indigestible food, it not only refuses to perform its office, but inflicts upon us unspeakable tortures, such as those of indigestion, colic, cholera morbus, &c. Not content with giving us pain, it frequently inaugurates an excessive and wasting diarrhœa, called dysentery, which carries us to our graves. With a view to prevent these consequences, as soon as the stomach gives notice by premonitory twinges that its cargo is not to its liking, a wineglassful or two of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters should be swallowed. This admirable digestive cordial will promptly reconcile the refractory organ to its contents, and prevent any of those annoying and possibly fatal results which the presence of indigestible food in the stomach is liable to produce. The Bitters are also a superb tonic, restorative and appetizer.

EDUCATIONAL.

AUGUSTA FEMALE SEMINARY,
STAUNTON, VA.

Miss MARY J. BALDWIN
PRINCIPAL.

THE Academic Term of this Institution begins the second Wednesday in September and closes the middle of the following June.

This is the largest first-class Institution in Virginia, and has a corps of upwards of thirty officers and teachers. The English course is as thorough as it is extensive.

Advantages for Music and Languages cannot be surpassed. Seven Music teachers—four instrumental and three vocal—are constantly employed, whose reputation has extended as far as the school is known.

A resident French governess teaches pupils to speak the language as well as to read and write. Both French and German are both spoken at the table by pupils studying these languages.

The buildings are convenient, comfortable, and elegant, furnished with complete apparatus and Pianos and Organs from the factories in New York and Baltimore.

For further particulars apply to the Principal for Catalogue. june15—d3m

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

BOOK AGENTS wanted to sell "The People's Common Sense Medal Advertiser." It is the cheapest book ever published; 885 pages, over 250 illustrations, $1.50. Thousands buy it at sight who could not be induced to purchase the high-priced books treating of Domestic Machine. Unlike other books sold through agents this work is thoroughly advertised throughout North America. This fact, together with the large size, elegant appearance, and many new features of the book, causes it to sell more rapidly than any work ever published in this country. Those of my agents who have had experience in selling books, say that in all their previous canvassing they never met with such success or made so large wages, as since commencing the sale of my work. For terms and territory, address (inclosing two postage stamps and stating experience) R. V. Pierce, M. D., World's Dispensary, Buffalo, New York. Note—Mark envelope "For Publishing Department."
